

Are you at risk?

Your eyes are constantly subjected to the cell-damaging effects of free radicals and poor nutrition. Which can increase the risk of developing severe vision loss or impairment.

Other factors that may contribute to age-related vision loss:

- poor diet
- smoking
- high blood pressure
- family medical history
- obesity
- excessive sunlight

Whether you are concerned about ultraviolet radiation from the sun or simply the normal visual decline associated with aging, the components in TOZAL® Eye Health Formula have been statistically and clinically proven to neutralize free radicals, and may help preserve visual and macular health.*

"Every patient concerned about their vision should take an antioxidant and omega-3 based nutritional supplement."*

Quality makes the difference

At AmeriSciences®, we understand that even extraordinary formulations can only go so far if they are limited by subpar manufacturing techniques and quality standards. Thus, we recognize that today's U.S. dietary supplement regulations— including the newly implemented Good Manufacturing Practices (GMP)— present shortcomings that may allow inferior manufacturers to bring products of lesser quality to market. This is why we have developed one of the highest standards in the industry. We offer only top-quality products, developed by scientists and physicians, that are manufactured at FDA-registered facilities following OTC pharmaceutical standards.

Setting a new standard in vision care

TOZAL® Eye Health Formula is a unique, patented blend based on the results of the landmark TOZAL® Study that showed consistent use of the proper combination of micronutrients can help maintain ocular health. Lutein and zinc, along with taurine and other antioxidants help protect against free radicals such as those caused by the sun's radiation, while the omega-3 fatty acids in Omega Max provide the right nutritive lipid balance to the retina and other parts of the body.*

TOZAL Eye Health Formula includes:

Antioxidant Plus: a strong antioxidant boost to fight free radicals.*

Omega Max: a molecularly distilled, highly potent, pharmaceutical-grade fish oil.

Based on the landmark clinical study

With AmeriSciences' exclusive release of products based on the patented TOZAL® formulation, this product takes advantage of the latest developments in the nutritional science supporting eye health. First published in the British medical journal BioMed Central Ophthalmology and featured in recent television news reports, the TOZAL® study showed that consistent use of the proper combination of nutritional supplements helped to reduce the risk factors of age-related visual decline over a six-month period. These results clearly surpassed the positive benefits of the initial AREDS study that has been widely adopted by eye-care professionals as the standard for nutritional supplementation over the last several years.

Given these truly remarkable results, AmeriSciences is poised to revolutionize the eye-care industry with its TOZAL® Eye Health Formula.
